SERVICES TO USERS ON A REGULAR BASIS?

WE ARE LOOKING FOR YOU!

We would like to invite archivists who provide services and information regarding Holocaust related documentation to take part in an experts community, organized by EHRI. Members of this experts group will benefit from joint learning sessions, networking with peers, and opportunity for cooperation and integration into the EHRI network.

EHRI intends to identify additional relevant groups of experts in sub-specializations of Holocaust documentation, and create networks and platforms where such experts' groups can meet, exchange information and consult.

The experts group will participate in limited number of activities such as, discussions, lectures, practical workshops, etc. over the course of about two years. Activities will initially take place virtually, with the hope that soon we will be able to also conduct in-person meetings at various locations. A tentative schedule of events will be distributed in the near future.

Formation of this experts group is contingent on the number of registrants and their willingness to take an active part in the group's ongoing activities. We encourage you to register early, as the size of the group will be limited. Please be aware that we will accept one participant per institution.

The European Holocaust Research Infrastructure (EHRI), is an international infrastructure securing Holocaust research, commemoration and education on a transnational level. EHRI's main challenge is the wide dispersal of sources and expertise across many institutions and countries. EHRI overcomes such fragmentation by connecting sources, institutions and people, and promotes innovative tools that advance the digital transformation of Holocaust research. <https://www.ehri-project.eu/>
